AS OTHERS SEE US.

In the late local option contest in Anderson county the PALESTINE HERALD bore a conspicuous part and illustrated in an admirable manner that its editors and managers (Van and Mark Hamilton) know how to conduct a newspaper along legitimate lines. The HERALD favored local option. It was outspoken and sincere and fought its side with ability. But at no time during the heated canvass did it ever lose its head or its temper and it was the exemplification of fairness and evenhanded justice toward the other side, giving them the same use of its columns on the same term accorded the "pros." Its articles were in dignified, temperate language--no petty insinuations or provocative of bad feelings. It lost the fight but it came out clean and unsullied, and we shall be at once surprised and regretful if it has made any enemies, for its course was really one that should command the approval and endorsement of intelligent, reputable people, no matter what the differences of opinion on the question at issue. A community should be proud of that sort of paper, for it is essentially useful, in manifold ways.--Waco Tribune.

The above compliment from the pen of Editor McCullum, one of the ablest editors in Texas, and whose paper is probably the most influential one in Central Texas, is an appreciated one. To his well wishes we answer him that all is well with us, and as evidence that the business people do appreciate us we offer today's issue of the HERALD. This is the first regular edition twelve page daily ever printed in Palestine, and, besides showing that the HERALD is all right, it illustrates that Palestine is developing into a twelve page newspaper city.

BLOODY TRAGEDY AT PECOS, TEXAS

A Young Farm Hand Kills a Merchant.

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 11.--At Pecos a young man rode up behind E. Meyenberg and shot him down, firing two shots from a rifle. The first shot took effect in the face, tearing a ghastly wound. Deceased fell to the ground. The killer then rode nearer and shot him again through the body. Either shot would have proven fatal. The murderer ran for a hiding place, going along the river. Sheriff Lovell at once gave a hot pursuit and overtook his man about eighteen miles out. Seeing there was no use to make a resistance he at once surrendered and was brought back and lodged in jail. Meyenberg had been in business in Pecos for some ten years, was a free giver to charity and deserved no such fate as befell him.

The killer is a young man of powerful build, who has been working on farms above town and has the name of being a good field hand. Meyenberg was well connected, his father living at La Grange, Texas. His relatives wired to have the body embalmed and shipped to them for burial. The cause of the trouble is unknown.

Y. M. C. A. Notice.

HEAVY RAINS IN WEST TEXAS

Many Bridges Washed Away and Considerable Damages to Railroads.

Cotulla, Tex., Sept. 11.--Rain began falling here at 1 o'clock yesterday morning and continued steadily for twelve hours. Below here the rainfall amounted to almost a waterpout and between this point and Laredo four bridges were washed away, and at Webb station 400 feet of track is gone. There were no trains from Laredo today, nor will there likely be any for thirty-six hours. The passengers from San Antonio were doubled back from this point. It rained again last night.

No morphine fiends by Osteopathic methods.
